PROJECTS AND EXTRA CURRICULAR ACTIVITIES

[28 Feb 2026 - 1 Mar 2026]

Organizer at Campfire Lahore

Type: Event

Hosted by: HackClub, USA

Served on the organizing team for the Lahore edition of Campfire, a global 2-day game jam held simultaneously in 200+ cities worldwide. Focused on introducing students and beginners to game development through hands-on participation.

[16 Jun 2025 - 30 Sep 2025]

Summer of Making

Type: Event

Hosted by: HackClub, USA

In this event, aiming at empowering teenagers in technology and robotics which brought together participants from around the globe, I ranked 24 out of 2400+ participants, and won an iPad.

[17 Jun 2025 - 1 Sep 2025]

Oscilloscope Online

Type: Project

Oscilloscope Online is a web serial plotter, an alternative to Arduino IDE's serial plotter. Feature-rich, clean UI, better charts and tables. It is suitable for data visualization in research work, sensor analysis and plain hobbyist-robotics. It's not limited to Arduino! It can work with any serial device including ESP32, STM and Raspberry Pi!

It was this project that helped me reach 24/2400 at HackClub's Summer of Making

Siege

Type: Event

Hosted by: HackClub, USA

Aimed at persistence and consistency, we were tasked with continuously submitting a new 10 hour project every week for the next 10 weeks. All participants who were able to make it to the end, including me, were given 650$ grants for buying a personal laptop.

Flavortown

Type: Event

Hosted by: HackClub, USA

A redo of "Summer of Making", Flavortown is yet another event where thousands of teenagers presented their best projects. During this event, I spent 150 hours programming a video game called "Dungeon Explorer" and won an iPhone 17E.
